Remarkable Vogue of Mediaeval Superstition.

"Sorcery is Science Seen Upside Down" - Pseudo-Scientific Names and Jargons.

In the Century Daniel G. Brinton has an article on "Popular Superstitions article by saying:

From some strange reason there has been a wonderful revival within the last decade of nearly every mediaeval superstition, under various guises, in from Honokaa the most enlightened centers of the world. The practitioners of this modern sorcery, instead of concealing, advertise their claims, and urge them on the community under pseudo-scientific names and paragons. Palmistry, astrology, sympathetic magic, the doctrine of signatures, hierotherapeautics and all the farrago of fifteenth century thaumaturgy, flourish today in Boston and Str. New York, in Paris and Chicago, to a degree surpassing anything known Str. three centuries ago.

There is a reason for this. Sorcery is science seen upside down. There is Kaunakakai, a confused groundwork of truth, a fallacious method of viewing facts, at the basis of these pseudo-sciences. Yet the truth and the facts exist, and these explain the success of the deceptions. They dazzle and daze minds not trained in sound reasoning; and how few are! The societies for "psychical research" and theosophic speculation with an acknowledgment of the possible truth of ghost-seeing and of communion with the divine. This pos-sible ground is seized by the charlatan as proved basis for his illusory edifice.

Superstitions are at core the same everywhere and at all times, because they are based on those desires and that ignorance which are and will ever be a part of man's nature. He is dimly aware of mighty, unmeasured forces in ceaseless activity around him, controlling his own destiny; the ominous and omnipresent, portent of death meets him at every turn; dissatisfaction with his present condition, intense longing for a life and joy which it can never offer, goad him to seek a knowledge which weights and measures are impotent to accord him. Yet such restricted knowledge is all that science can sup-Therefore he turns in despair to the mysteries and the adepts, the Cagliostros and the Humes, who stand ready to beacon him into their illusory temples of folly.

MANUSCRIPT BOOK HAS BEEN LOST.

Work of a Life. Almost-A Reward for a Writing.

What is probably the most valuable piece of literary property in these Islands has been lost. It is a manuscript book and has been missing since June last. The work is a technical treatise and dictionary of Micronesian languages. Rev. Hiram Bingham has been engaged upon the book many years. He is almost heartbroken over the fact that it cannot be found. The book could not be turned to profit by any finder. If sold the fact would be reported at once and return made to Rev. Mr. Bingham. In the whole world there would not be over half a dozen possible purchasers to be found. The author has always intended to complishments of his life. Scholars everywhere, and especially those interested in Polynesia, will mourn with the owner if the property is not recoverty to Chester A. Doyle, who has been on the case, or to Marshal Brown or one of his deputies at the police station. There will be no charges or prosecution. It is the verdict of the officers and others concerned that the property has simply been lost.

A Mr. Christian, an English gentleman well known in the literary and scientific world, came here with let-ters from many people and societies of Washington. This book of Rev. In make ing this move Mr. Garvin follows what has been his plan of work for many years, that of planting churches in vasant helds and remaining with them until they become self-sustaining and an efficient working organization could be effected. This stage has been reached in the history of this, his latest effort, as the church is officered and in good condition financially, and be will now accept one of several calls he has in contemplation. Australia, as well as the churches on the Coast, is represented among these, and it is not yet fully decided which way he will go. The church here is loth to part with its founder and pastor and the community generally will sincerely regret the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Garvin. ing this move Mr. Garvin follows what
